SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Restructuring of the LH Leadership

We have restructured the leadership of Liberated Horsemanship. This is a positive change that simply formalizes the leadership roles as they have naturally functioned over the past years. These updates will have little to no effect on our continuing mission to advance natural hoof care and a compassionate, science-based approach to animal health … it's business as usual.

In particular, I am officially stepping back from day-to-day operations and will no longer give live classroom presentations. However, I plan to be present at U.S. and perhaps some international events for discussion. My presentations on the logic of natural hoof care and the impact of non-trimming factors on animal and hoof health will be recorded and remain an integral part of the Gateway Clinic and Hoof Health Workshops for Zoos. I will also continue to guide the long-range mission, core philosophy, and foundational principles of Liberated Horsemanship as Senior Advisor—which mostly means I'll add my two cents now and then.

Ann Corso will take full operational control of Liberated Horsemanship as Managing Director. This is a role she has carried out admirably for the past couple of years, and it is well past time for her tireless efforts to receive official recognition.

Cindy Hall, Co-Founder of the Liberated Horsemanship Zoo Hoof Care Training Program, will continue her vital work as Director of that program and Zoo Liaison. Cheers, Bruce
